DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-6 have been examined.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to because some informal drawing contains letters and characters that are hard to read and understand. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-3, 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Medvinsky et al. U.S. Pub. No. 20030093694 (hereinafter Medvinsky).

5. As per claim 1 and 6, Medvinsky discloses a method comprising: modifying an original header associated with an original data packet wherein key information is added (Medvinsky: [0099]-[0104]: the secure packets include session ID used to identify security parameters); encrypting original data associated with the original data packet in response to the key information (Medvinsky: [0104]: media stream encryption key is used to encrypt data); and forming an encrypted data packet including the modified header and the encrypted data (Medvinsky:[0099]-[0103]), wherein the modified header is a same size as the original header (Medvinsky: [0105]: AES is used; characteristic of stream ciphers/cipher blocks makes them suitable for applications that require the encrypted ciphertext data to be the same size as the original plaintext data).

6. As per claim 2, Medvinsky discloses the method of claim 1. Medvinsky further discloses the method comprises a unique key identifier associated with the encrypted data packet (Medvinsky: [0104]: the unique session ID identifies a set of security parameters EK- encryption key).

7. As per claim 3, Medvinsky discloses the method of claim 2. Medvinsky further discloses wherein the modifying further comprises modifying the original header in response to the unique key identifier (Medvinsky: [0099]-[0104]).

8. As per claim 5, Medvinsky discloses the method of claim 1. Medvinsky further discloses that the original data packet and the encrypted packets utilize Internet Protocol versions not limited to version 4 (Medvinsky: [0099]-[0104]: RTP and RTCP packets).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

9. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Medvinsky.

11. As per claim 4, Medvinsky discloses the method of claim 1. Medvinsky does not explicitly disclose wherein the modifying further comprises replacing the fragmentation identification and fragment offset of the original header with a mixing key and an offset. However, Medvinsky discloses the security parameters are included in the header in an IP packet (Medvinsky: [0099]-[0104]). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to replace the fragmentation identification and fragment set of the original header with a mixing key and an offset because IP packet header enables certain field to be used to communicate security parameters associated with the packet.

Response to Arguments

12. Applicant's arguments filed 10/4/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding applicant's remarks, applicant argues that the prior art does not disclose wherein the modified header is the same size as the original header. However, Medvinsky discloses that the generated IV is the same size as the cipher block size (Medvinsky: [0105]) and the examiner has interpreted the RTCP packet including the additional fields as original packet while the encoded RTCP message as modified data. Therefore, applicant's argument is traversed.

Conclusion

13. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Yokote U.S. Pub. No. 20020147820 discloses method for implementing IP security in mobile IP network.

14. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
